Rapid application development (RAD) is a software-development (or systems-development) methodology that focuses on quickly building a working model of the software, getting feedback from users, and then using that feedback to update the working model. Then, an introduction to the basic concepts of Information Systems development is needed. A good introductory reading is the book "Information Systems Development: Methodologies, Techniques and Tools" by D.E. Avison and G. Fitzgerald and, in the same way, Donal J. Flynn's "Information Systems Requirements: Determination and Analysis".
